

Today I am seeking re-election for the position of Director at Large.

For the last four years, I have served as chair of the Special Interest Group (SIG) for Neuromonitoring.

In the decades that I have been a SNACC member, I have looked to the members of the society collegiality, inspiration and growth and know that I am a better clinician and teacher because of SNACC.

For the last two years, I have served as a Director at Large on the Board of Directors, a privilege to serve SNACC in this role. I have co-founded the Committee on Diversity and Inclusion. I have established an outreach program to all interested members both national and internationally. I have solicited the ideas of engaged committee members and have been instrumental in updating the SNACC mission statement.

I have fulfilled my promise to strengthen SNACC as the premier society for those interested in the brain and spinal cord. I have encouraged junior members to bring their energy and ideas to SNACC. I am promoting an exchange program with receptive institutions and piloting a mentoring program for interested members.

I will continue to support the members of SNACC by revitalizing the society to embrace clinicians and scientists. With the fast changing world of medicine, I will work diligently for it to maintain SNACC's international leadership role in all things "NEURO".

I welcome this opportunity to serve as a Director. I promise to do my best to continue the growth of this great society.
