Peggy J. Wheeler, MD

The Society for Neuroscience in Anesthesiology and Critical Care (SNACC) has been a part of my life for over twenty-five years—from residency to the present. I have been involved in attending annual meetings, contributing abstracts/articles to JNA, assisting colleagues in their preparation of abstracts/presentations, and mentoring residents/fellows to support their interest in our subspecialty. Through the years, I have been able to draw upon a variety of experiences from serving at the national, state, university, hospital and department levels that gives me a multi-faceted perspective on team development and strategic planning. Most recently, I was invited to serve as a member of the SNACC taskforce that developed Milestones in Neuroanesthesiology. I am very excited to contribute in the advancement of those foundational goals, as SNACC expands their relationship with International Council on Perioperative Neuroscience Training (ICPNT) and continues to develop the international fellowship programs in perioperative neuroscience.

I whole-heartedly believe in the mission of SNACC, that promoting education, training and research is the key to advancing neuroscience. I have received so many valuable benefits over the years from SNACC. It would be my honor to give back by serving on the Board of Directors the Society for Neuroscience in Anesthesiology and Critical Care.
